Prosecutor General of the Russian Federation
Ul. B. Dimitrovka, d.15a
125993 Moscow GSP

CC: Sergey Kislyak, Russian Ambassador to the United States

Dear Mr. Chaika:

We, the below-signed 1,091 signatories, join Human Rights First in writing to express our grave concern about the court proceedings against Yury Samodurov, the Director of the Sakharov Museum in Moscow, and Andrey Erofeev, a former curator at the State Tretyakov Gallery, who are facing unfounded charges of inciting hatred for the organization of a "Forbidden Art" exhibit in 2006. It is also worrying that the presiding judge opted in favor of a closed hearing of this case, jeopardizing transparency and potentially independence.

On May 13, 2008, Samodurov and Andrey Erofeev, recently dismissed from his position as a curator at the State Tretyakov Gallery, were charged with violating Article 282(2)(b) of the Russian Criminal Code (incitement to national and religious hatred) for the 2006 Forbidden Art exhibition. The works displayed had been refused by other museums, and the purpose of the exhibition was thus to study "the nature and tendencies of institutional censorship in the area of culture."

The case against the organizers of the exhibition began in June 2007, and stemmed from the public indignation of the Orthodox Community, who had deemed the works as anti-Christian, anti-Orthodox, and anti-Russian. In 2005, in a similar case that was criticized by domestic and international human rights groups, Samodurov was found guilty of incitement to hate for organizing "Caution, religion!," an exhibition which included paintings and other art examining-and parodying-the intersection of religion with commercial interests, politics, and popular culture.

We are concerned that, in prosecuting this case, the Russian authorities are violating their commitments and their obligations in domestic and international law to respect the right to freedom of expression. Rather than investigating and prosecuting perpetrators of violent hate crimes, prosecutors have too often misused antiextremism legislation to silence human rights defenders and government critics. We call on the prosecutor's office to drop the charges against Samodurov and Erofeev and close the case on the grounds that no crime has been committed.

Thank you for your attention to this urgent matter. We will continue to closely monitor this situation.
